There's more to colour than meets the eye
Colour has power! But do you realise how much it can do for you? Look around you. Colour is everywhere - from nature to art, decor and fashion. You see, feel, breathe and absorb colour. It fills your life with joy and beauty. But that's not all. Colour also has the power to change your mood and behaviour. Researchers in psychology have shown that colour accesses your deepest impulses and desires. That's why advertisers use it to influence the way you feel.

Colour can also work at an even deeper level. Perhaps the most exciting quality of colour is that it can access your very essence. And within your essence lies your unique beauty and talents.

Now, through the Aura-Soma colour care products, you can consciously use all this power and potential of colour to transform your life.

Aura-Soma - a worldwide success from humble beginnings
From humble beginnings in a small village in England, Aura-Soma is now the largest manufacturer of colour energy products in the world. It is in over 50 countries and is living the vision of its founder, Vicky Wall, to make colour available to everyone in a way that not only improves their wellbeing, but touches them deeply and transforms their life.

Aura-Soma and your “inner colours”
You have a consciousness, as well as an aura - an amazing energy field in living colour, as unique as your fingerprint. It’s a reflection of your true nature and essence. Your body also has colour-coded energy zones or chakras, each a storehouse of specific energy waiting to be released. Like a battery that’s being constantly used, these chakras can get run down or depleted. When that happens you won’t be able to function to your full potential.

By using the Aura-Soma colour products you can replenish your aura and activate your energy zones. Their dynamic living energies help you in so many ways.

- feel happier about yourself
- manage your stress levels better and feel so much more relaxed
- improve your relationships and be open to receive love
- connect with your spirit
- access your intuition and creativity
- feel more confident and overcomes fears
- express your individuality
- be self-activating and bring more enthusiasm to each day
- know what you want out of life and be able to give more to others
- improve your general wellbeing and confidently embrace the opportunities that come your way

History and Science of colour
The origins of using colour in this way can be traced back to ancient Egypt and Greece many thousands of years ago. Modern science now recognises that we are vibrations of colour and light, and that all matter is light vibrating at different frequencies. So it’s easy to see the interrelationship between us and colour. Everyone naturally responds to colour!

Aura-Soma is a beautiful, vibrant colour system combining ancient knowledge and modern technology.

Aura-Soma achieves all this is 2 ways - through the remarkable living energies in their products which replenish the body’s aura and energy zones on all levels and through the amazing insights of their consultation process using the Aura-Soma Equilibrium bottles.
